

In today's CC create an express server with the following routes

/addNewData → This route will open a text file and write "This is a new data." in the file.

/updateNewData → This is will open the text file and append "This is an update." to the file .

/displayData → This route will open the file and read the content of the file and send back as response.

Note:

1. /addNewData should rewrite the file.
2. /updateNewData should keep on appending data the number of times its getting called.
